

News In Brief

Reorganization of the Loyola College orchestra, defunct since 1942, is being planned by the Rev. Joseph B. Dougherty, S. J.

Members of the student body who can play musical instruments and are interested in playing in the orchestra, are urged to contact Fr. Dougherty or Johnny Grimm.

Recent additions to the Faculty announced by the Dean's Office are: Mr. Henry Herzonroeder, as instructor in Marketing; Mr. Charles Jordan, as instructor in Spanish; Dr. Ellis Lippincott, Jr., as instructor in Chemistry; and Mr. Hyginus Peculis, as instructor in Economics.

A reception for the parents of students of Loyola College was held in the Oak Room of the Library Building on Sunday, March 2. Approximately 200 members of the faculty, parents and friends of the College attended. The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S. J., and Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., welcomed the parents. Refreshments were served.

Novena of Grace services were held on the nine days between March 4 and March 12 in the Chapel of Grace. Services were held after the 8 a. m. Mass, at 12.30, 4 and 7.45 p. m.

Mr. William-M. J. Driscoll, S. J., moderator of THE GREYHOUND, will be a judge in the semi-finals of The Patrick Henry Oratorical Contest sponsored by the Hearst Newspapers.

Evergreen To Survey 25 Years

Latest estimates indicate that the 1947 Evergreen will be published in time for the graduation ceremonies on May 25. In addition to the May graduates, the yearbook will include pictures of the January and July classes, making a total of eighty-seven senior portraits.

Subscriptions are still being taken at the price of $7.50 per copy. The patron fee is $2.00. The special fee for student patrons is $1.00.

In recognition of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Loyola at Evergreen, the yearbook will feature pictures of old campus scenes and the erection of the Science, Library and Gymnasium buildings.

The senior pictures of the sixteen graduates of the Class of 1922, the twenty-five year class of the Alumni Association, will also be included. Among these graduates are the Very Rev. Edward A. Kerr, S. J., president of Loyola High School; the Very Rev. Kenneth L. Graham, S. J., rector of St. Ignatius' Church; and A. Paul Menton and Clarence J. Caulfield, both associated with the Baltimore Sunpapers. Fr. Kerr supplied the information on these graduates.

Accompanying these pictures will be a comprehensive survey of the history of the College at Evergreen.

New Greyhound To Appear Bi-weekly

This issue of THE GREYHOUND is the first of a series to be published every two weeks instead of tri-weekly. Because of the increase in the size of the student body and the increase of news about Loyola, it was decided that THE GREYHOUND could best serve the students, alumni, friends and faculty of Loyola by increasing the number of issues per year.

Announcement of the change in frequency was made at a staff meeting held on March 3 by Mr. William-M. J. Driscoll, S. J., Moderator. It was emphasized that there will be no compromise in the quality of each individual edition.

Sodalities Help Chinese Fund

Net returns of $160 on the Cupid's Cotillion and donations of $150 towards rebuilding Chinese missions were announced recently by Edward C. Barrett, Senior Sodality prefect.

The Cotillion, held at the Maryland Yacht Club on Valentine's Day, was sponsored by the Sodality Union. The Loyola campaign to aid in restoring the mission and seminary of Bishop Tchao was the result of a written plea by the Bishop to the Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., president of the College, which was subsequently printed in THE GREYHOUND.

Robert Crow has been appointed new chairman of the Sodality publicity committee, succeeding John Ahlers, who left for Loyola University, New Orleans.

Drama Club Will Present Medieval Morality Play

Everyman, the epic morality play of the Middle Ages will be presented by the Mask and Rapier Dramatic Society of Loyola College on Passion Sunday, March 23, it was announced by William F. Carver, president of the Society. The play will be presented on the stage in the Library at 8:30 p. m.

Production of Everyman was decided at a meeting of the Society held on February 26. At that time a modern dress version of the play was chosen as the most appropriate for presentation.

Greyhounds Trip Mt. St. Mary's To Win Mason-Dixon Tournament

Fred Olinger, all-tournament selection, and American U's George Lafferty (16) scramble for a rebound in a semi-final game at Catholic U. last Friday. Sid Roche and Paul Feeley of Loyola and Tex Griffin of American U. are in the background.

Hastings College of Nebraska upset Loyola College's Greyhounds in the sixteenth and final first-round game of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament in Kansas City, last Tuesday, March 11, by a score of 53-44.

In a hard fought game, during which the lead changed hands several times, Loyola defeated Mt. St. Mary's last Saturday night at Catholic University to take the final game of the Mason-Dixon Tournament. With Jim Lacy accounting for 29 of the victors' points, the Greyhounds staged a spectacular last quarter rally to win, 60-54.

The Mount cagers were winning, 43-39, when only six minutes remained in the game. But Lacy and Johnson pulled the Greyhounds into a 46-46 tie and in the final few minutes Lacy fired 14 points through the hoop before leaving the game on fouls.

Russo Best Opponent
Mt. St. Mary's played a fast-moving, sharpshooting game. With shot-makers Clark, Russo, Charniga and Kripatis making smooth goals from all over the court, the Mountmen outplayed the Greyhounds for three fourths of the game. Lacy's amazing 14 points in the final five minutes offset the clever dribbling and shooting of Mike Russo who starred for Mt. St. Mary's.

Loyola was presented with the Mason-Dixon Tournament trophy immediately following the game. The Greyhounds also won the regular Mason-Dixon Conference trophy after posting a 12-2 record.

First-Round Winners
Catholic University bowed to Loyola in the opening round of the tournament by the score of 76-60. Lacy racked up 27 points to take scoring honors for the night.

American University was next to meet Loyola and they proved to be a tough foe to beat. The zone defense of the Eagles was again effective but their offense bogged down and Loyola won, going away, 52-46 with Lacy making 13 points.

Second Lecture On St. Jerome

The second in the series of Spring Lectures will be given by Dr. Martin McGuire this Sunday, March 16, in the college library. Dr. McGuire is prominent in the field of American education and his topic, "Great Books of Early Christian Centuries," will emphasize St. Jerome, translator of the Latin Vulgate, as historian and researcher.

The first lecture was delivered last Sunday by the Rev. Gerald Walsh, S. J., on "Apostolic Fathers." Fr. Walsh, editor of Thought, the Fordham University Quarterly, spoke on the works of St. Ignatius, Bishop of Antioch, and St. Clement of Rome.

The concluding lectures will be given on succeeding Sundays. The Rev. J. Courtney Murray, S. J., editor of Theological Studies, will speak on St. Augustine. Dr. Ross Hoffman, an expert on the Spanish situation, will deliver the final address on "Spain" on March 30.

Council Sets Dance Tax Rate

Clarification of the amount of tax to be placed by the Student Council on dance tickets was completed last week at the 21st weekly council meeting of the school year.

A motion was passed ruling that "in accordance with the Constitution of the Student Council, a five cent tax be placed on each ticket sold for dances held at Evergreen, and that all previous legislation referring to this question of the Council be rescinded."

Pontiac Top Prize In A. A. Drawing

Attempting to raise enough funds for new improvements to Evergreen athletic facilities, the Athletic Association launched a drive this month to have every student sell at least one book of chances for a drawing on a Pontiac sedan.

Proceeds from the drawing will go towards the Athletic Association's improvement plan which calls for the erection of a fence in the athletic field, more lockers for the gymnasium, and increased seating capacity for the basketball court.

Each student is permitted to keep one dollar on each book he sells. In addition to this, the student who sells the greatest number of books will be given a $25 reward with $10 rewards given to the next three highest and nine $5 rewards to runners-up.

Letters To The Greyhound

(We request letters for publication in this column from members of the student body and alumni on any topic of general interest to the student body.)

Editor, THE GREYHOUND

Dear Sir:

Was rereading your issue of January 31, and upon looking over the full page of pictures on the various activities around the school, I saw no mention of photography. I am very interested in photography and was wondering if a club could not be formed. I have spoken to several members of your Photo staff and have found to my amazement that there is no place at school where pictures can be developed and enlarged. Upon my mentioning that this was quite strange, they replied that there was a lab but because some students wrongly used it, it was taken away from them.

Why can't we have a photo lab in one of the rooms in the new buildings that are going up? I'm sure that there are enough men here to form a good photo club. If they had a place to work, I'm sure that there would be an enthusiastic response to any mention of a club.

Since this is the only way that I know of getting the whole student body to take notice of any proposal, I am sending this letter to you in the hope that you will print it.

Sincerely,
James K. Lightner, '49

Frozen Ground Slows Construction

Workmen have nearly completed the task of clearing and leveling the ground on the north side of the campus prior to the erection of the temporary classroom buildings.

Although unable to work during most of February because of frozen ground conditions and the heavy snowfall, upon the advent of more moderate weather, the workmen resumed their task of preparing a firm earth foundation for the structures.

The Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S. J., has made the basement of the Faculty House available to officials and workers of the construction company in order to provide them with an on-the-job office.

Editor, THE GREYHOUND:

We former men of Loyola enjoy reading THE GREYHOUND when it arrives.

One column that appeared in the December 27 issue has created chaos and confusion and much discussion among our buddies. The column entitled, "Vet Embarrassed by Emblem Loss," seemed to us rather silly. The article stated that the Vets should always carry an extra "duck" in their pockets in case the first one fell down a sewer. We, in the occupational zone, would gladly bear the "embarrassment" of walking around the streets of Baltimore without a discharge pin, if we could change places with the poor unfortunate.

If it was a combat veteran, we deeply apologize, but we feel reasonably sure that only a happy Air Corps veteran (of 8 or 10 months, American theater) would publish such an article.

We challenge the editor to print this letter.

Yours sincerely,
Pvts. Jack Herberts

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doehler, '30

COMING ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

The present administration of the Alumni Association is living up to its promise of an expanded program of activities. Just to keep the members informed in advance, here is a preview of the program for coming months.

The first activity on the calendar is the Annual Communion Breakfast to be held at Evergreen on Sunday, April 27. The plans are being made by the chairman of the gathering, J. Joseph Curran, Vice-President of the Association. Chairman Curran wishes to remind the members that reservations are important for this occasion. The breakfast is being provided free by the Association but reservations must be made in advance of the caterer's deadline. When you receive your postcard, be sure to fill it in and return it immediately!

In connection with the May Graduation exercises, the Alumni Association plans to hold a formal dance, the first one sponsored by the Alumni in many years. Chairman Charles J. Broderick is working with his committee and promises detailed information in the near future. Watch the columns of THE GREYHOUND for details!

Graduation time will also bring the revival of another important activity. Among the festivities of "June Week" will be an induction of the Seniors into the Alumni Association. Many of us remember previous inductions. There was the year when a mock-graduation ceremony was held in what is now the Oa Room. Some of the degrees conferred on the new Alumni were unique! Then there was the occasion when an inquisition was held to determine whether the potential Alumni were worth to be received into the Association. The answers were usually much better than the questions! We can depend upon it that the Chairman of this revived activity, Ned Stevenson, will give us a worthwhile exhibition. Again, keep reading Alumni Doings for further details and the date!

ALUMNI AND THE 1947 EVERGREEN

The Alumni will be interested to learn that the 25th Anniversary of the coming to Evergreen will be appropriately recorded in the annals of Loyola by a special year-book, "The Evergreen of 1947." Besides its usual treatment of the present graduating class, this book will give the history of the quarter century at Evergreen and will also feature the pictures and the history of the class of 1922, the first to graduate from the new campus. The "Evergreen of 1947" will be of unusual interest to members of the Alumni Association. We remind you that there is still time to subscribe or to be listed as a patron. Write or phone today!

ALUMNI NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dunn have announced the birth of their daughter, Cassandra Anne, born on February 2, 1947. We also have information that Robert N. Fahrney and Sam Brocato are now in the Regular Navy Air Corps. Two members of the class of '35 have recently sent in information on their occupations. James N. Krauter is now in business selling sporting equipment. The other member of '35, Ben J. Debinski, is now the Lay Associate of the Catholic Youth Organization of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

ALUMNI BOWLING LEAGUE

Members of the Alumni Association will move into the Loyola athletic picture next fall with the start of a proposed graduate bowling league.

According to present plans, an eight or ten team league will roll one night a week at a downtown alley.

James McManus, Jan. '43, chairman of the committee, today urged all interested Alumni to call the Alumni office (Be. 9730) and leave their names with the secretary. It is important to have the names within the next two weeks, he said, in order to make alley reservations for next year.

Teams will be formed through class captains after the individual applications have been received.

Jesuits Given India Mission

The Maryland Province of the Society of Jesus has recently been assigned the province of Jamshedpur in Northern India for its foreign mission work. The announcement was made by the Very Rev. David Nugent, S. J., provincial of the Maryland Province.

This area is about 125 miles inland from the city of Calcutta. The number of Catholics in the region is given as nearly 10,000. The area contains the richest iron ore and coal deposits in India and produces the largest output of mica in the world.

The new mission territory, hitherto part of the Ranci and Calcutta Missions, was formerly conducted by the Jesuits of the Belgian Provinces.

History Contest Won By Lalley

Thomas L. Lalley was announced as winner of the Whiteford Gold Medal by Dr. Edward A. Doehler, professor of History. The award was made on the basis of Lalley's essay on the topic: Mirabeau and the French Revolution.

The Whiteford Gold Medal, founded by Miss Celinda Whiteford, is awarded annually for the best historical essay of approximately 3,000 words.

Other participants in this year's contest included Gus A. Crenson and William Pillsbury. The gold medal will be awarded at the commencement exercises in May.

Meet The Faculty

Mr. Charles F. Jordan has recently become a member of the Loyola College Faculty. Mr. Jordan is well qualified for the position of instructor of Spanish, being a resident of Spanish-speaking Cuba for four years. In 1934 he received his A. B. from the University of Alabama.

In 1940 Mr. Jordan was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the Army and met his bride-to-be here in Baltimore while he was stationed at Fort Meade. In 1942 he was assigned as co-pilot to a B-24. Captured when his plane was shot down in Germany, Mr. Jordan spent the next thirteen months there as a Prisoner of War.

Mr. George J. Miller, Jr., has returned to his Alma Mater as instructor in Mathematics, Business Administration and Organization, and Office Management. Mr. Miller, who was president of the Loyola Student Body, received his A. B. in 1943.

During the following year he received his Bachelor of Engineer degree from Johns Hopkins University and has recently become a Certified Public Accountant in Maryland. Mr. Miller is 25, married, and the father of an eight month old baby girl.

Photo Contest To End March 28

Members of the student body who are fathers are again invited to submit pictures for the Baby Photograph contest, which is under the sponsorship of THE GREYHOUND.

Few pictures have been submitted to date, but considering the arrival of the two new babies, (see page 8) the judges expect more pictures to arrive.

All entries must be in not later than March 28. The contest is restricted to those pictures of infants who are three years of age or under on the deadline date of the contest.

It is requested that all photographs be of reasonable size and that the baby's age be plainly marked on the back of the picture.

In the April issue of THE GREYHOUND, all of the pictures which have been submitted to the judges, will be reproduced along with the announcement of the winning pieces of photographic art. Every photograph entered in the contest will be returned to the entrant not later than the publication date of the April 18 edition of THE GREYHOUND.

Significant Event Chess Club Prevails Over Polytechnic Institute

Victory By One Point

Spirit of Fair Play Dominates

In a close and hard fought match, the Loyola Chess team won its first victory of the season by defeating the Poly team by the narrow margin of 4 to 3. This victory gives them a record of one win and one defeat for the year.

When five games had been completed, the score stood 3 to 2 in favor of Poly. However, the hound chessmen were equal to the task. Captain Tom Comber tied the score when his opponent resigned. Bob Fusting gained the victory for Loyola by checkmating his opponent. Other winners for Loyola were Bob Bordley and Jack Phillips.

A return engagement with Poly has been scheduled to be played here at Loyola on Thursday, March 20.

Let's Undermine Your Mind

by Horace K. Ipple, W. O. W.

1. That's a scintillating question. They are the most neurotic of all our professional men and they need all the care and attention that can be given them. They have a tendency to forget their own worries and concentrate on other people's troubles. This gives them such a lofty, flighty feeling that undoubtedly, they would soar into the stratosphere if they were not weighted down by the forces of gravity, not to mention their daily newspaper columns.

2. That's a keen question. The chief complaint of the wives of such men is that their husbands' duties take them away from their homes so often that they have little opportunity to argue with each other. Naturally, this makes for a happy, tranquil household. My own personal experiences have shown me that if a woman does not assume an independent attitude, she is probably dependent.

3. That's a question. A recent survey conducted by Dr. Ivan Awfulitch of Kreml College showed that 67% of the girls and 25.2% of the boys of that institution agreed that as long as people continued to feed the animals in the zoo, there would be small use in worrying. They attributed their answer to the fact that as long as the human race took pity on its inferiors, Mother Nature would be good to us.

Chemists Needed, Says Atom Scientist

by William Hefner

If every boy with natural aptitude were trained for chemistry, there would still not be enough chemists in the country to fill the demand.

That's what Dr. Donald H. Andrews, professor of chemistry at Johns Hopkins University and noted atomic scientist, had to say when interviewed about conditions in the land of test tubes and cyclotrons.

"Of course, every boy with a B. S. will not be able to walk out of college into a good position," Dr. Andrews went on to explain. "Some fields will be crowded, others will be begging for scientists. Anyone with a Ph. D., common sense, and ability to get along with people can almost pick his job."

Salary vs. Independence

Of the three divisions of top positions—Dr. Andrews divides them into professorships, industry, and research—the last two are much better paid. From $10,000 to $25,000 per year is not unusual for top positions.

The professorships, Dr. Andrews smiled, pay dividends in independence. A man is on his own in university research. And besides his regular teaching job, which may bring $5,000 to $10,000 a year, he is free to do consulting work for industry, which may double or triple his regular salary.

It is about ten times as easy to get a top position in research and in teaching with a Ph.D. as without one, Dr. Andrews explained. In industry, however, the odds go down to 50-50. General ability counts as much and more there than formal training.

Aptitude Explained

"I couldn't say whether there is such a thing as aptitude for science. Most men in the field believe there is, and that it is necessary.

"My own personal opinion is that if someone gets a deep satisfaction out of an experiment carefully performed, out of the reactions taking place and what they prove, then that person has aptitude for chemistry. Some people do not like inanimate objects. They like people, and living things. They aren't for science.

"The inner satisfaction, is, in my opinion, sufficient aptitude."

Debaters Meet W. Md. Today

Continuing its most active schedule in recent years the Bellarmine Debating Society of Loyola College meets the Debating Society of Western Maryland College this evening at 8:00 p. m.

Raymond L. Clemmens and Edward F. Shea of Loyola will uphold the negative of the question: "Resolved that Labor should receive a direct share in the management of Industry."

Tomorrow evening Robert Cooke and Francis Pacienza will journey to Westminster, Md., to meet the Western Maryland debaters on their own campus. The question will be the same but Loyola will uphold the affirmative.

On February 26 in Washington, Edward Shea and Donald Fay defeated the White Debating Society of Georgetown on the same topic.

On March 7, Frank Gallagher and Dudley Shoemaker traveled to Georgetown and on the following afternoon Shoemaker and Terrence Burke dropped a 2-1 decision at the Naval Academy in Annapolis.

School Spirit?—Yes!

The photographs above should write finis to the old argument of whether or not Loyola men are possessed of the proper school spirit. The pictures, as over 200 Loyola men who were present at the ceremonies will recall, are of the reception given the visiting Texas Wesleyan basketball team on the night before their game with the Greyhounds.

Neither an abstract enthusiasm for basketball nor plain curiosity are sufficient to explain why 25% of the student body planned to meet the southerners at the Airport, went instead to the train depot, and finally to a downtown hotel. A phenomenon like that simply can't be attributed to anything but genuine school spirit.

There has not been enough of this student-organized, spontaneous activity in the past. But it is important to know, now and for certain, that this spirit is there, and lacks only opportunity for its full expression.

It is an important spirit. An athletic team would be worse than powerless if it did not possess, besides skill in the sport played, a spirit of cooperation and enthusiasm among its members. Yet again, the spirit of athletics and extra-curricular activities is assured—for they would not exist if true inter-organizational spirit did not band the members together.

But the spirit of the college as a unit itself, set apart from any athletic contest or extra-curricular activity, can and should be further fostered and developed. The Texas athletes were met by Students of Loyola College, as such. It was not a team or club-sponsored activity. When we proudly identify ourselves as students of Loyola, and gladly participate as willing audience in campus plays, debates, athletics, and discussions—and, more precisely, in spontaneous demonstrations of unity such as was present at the Texas welcoming—we are truly possessed of the most precious thing a college man can own: the warm feeling of true comradeship that exists between those who work and will together.

We believe that feeling is growing.

Help Wanted

For the first time in nearly twenty years of publication, THE GREYHOUND is increasing its frequency from the traditional tri-weekly to a bi-weekly. With a student body well over wartime standards, an increase of news material was inevitable. With fifty percent more GREYHOUNDS during the school year, news—news of clubs, campus activities, sports, features, and student opinions—can be brought to the reader more quickly and be covered with the thoroughness it deserves.

Loyola's student publication has always sought to serve as a bond between members of the student body and between Evergreen graduates. With the ranks of both alumni and student body larger than ever before, that task has taken on new proportions. We need the help of every student and every graduate to carry it out in the manner an institution of Loyola's stature deserves.

Criticisms and suggestions from all quarters are always welcome. Contributions to the "Letters" column, news stories the staff may have missed, and ideas for feature articles are most earnestly solicited.

The staff promises to do its best to make THE GREYHOUND an interesting and informative organ of student activity and opinion. The paper belongs to the student and to the alumnus—we want to make it important to them. If we fall down on that job, or if there are ways in which we can do it better, we want to know about it.

"Save Starving Children"

Next week, March 16-22, is official campaign week for the adult Bishop's Relief Campaign for the Victims of War. Contributions for this "Save Starving Children" campaign will be accepted at the Chapel office in the Faculty House.

Right after the last issue of THE GREYHOUND was distributed in the cafe we took a poll of the readers to find out what they thought of the new revised Watchdog. Four thought it was no worse than the other one, seven didn't like it at all and fifteen were undecided. We would have asked more but Mr. Stevenson wanted his pistol back.

CANINE CALUMNIATIONS: Phil Lohrey made a futile attempt to extend his sleeping campaign to philosophy class the other day. Nevertheless he still carries on valiantly in the library. (He can be found any weekday morning between 9 and 11 reposing behind the 900's . . . A certain Joe named Weigman seems to be back on the beam again with Marie, if the Sodality Union dance is any indication . . . while Jim O'Neill relies on sideburns and polka dot scarves to attract the opposite sex . . . We were glad to hear that Maurice Mackey has the "reethym eef not zee danceeng.")

"All right, all right," said the enraged History professor, holding up a dripping blue-book, "who's the wise guy who took his exam underwater?" (Mr. Reynolds should be ashamed!)

DEPT. OF EXPERTS: For your information the Watchdog publishes the following list of authorities on various subjects: Haircuts—Jim Carmody, Work Clothes—Dick Besche, Razors—Jack Arthur, Advanced English—Bill Wiegand, High-Pressure Salesmanship—Clint Bamberger, Notre Dame Boarders—Joe Parlett, Psychology—Sid Roche, Ford Motors—Bill Murphy, Women—Bill Connolly, Anything else at all—George Herman.

A fellow who lives eight blocks from Evergreen tells us the following which he swears is true: It seems that one morning last week he had only ten minutes to make the first class. He raced out of his house and jumped into his car. Just as he pulled out, another car pulled in. He knew he had done the wrong thing when he heard a fellow in the other car say: "Gee, we were lucky to get this place. This is the first time I've gotten closer than ten blocks in weeks."

THE WATCHDOG GOES TO AN INITIATION: The Watchdog takes pleasure in bringing you the following unbiased report of the initiation of the Baron's Club, an exclusive organization controlled by students of Loyola College. The reporter was disguised as a charwoman, and managed to take the following notes in shorthand before he was discovered and imbedded in a block of cement (oh, Watchdogs are expendable).

"A certain house on Ellerslie Avenue . . . several Loyola men entered with strange long-haired creatures, which I soon discovered were girls . . . other Evergreen members entered with coats on backward. Identified Jim Bowen carrying two baby dolls—no, one baby doll and Jennie . . . Jim Fogarty, president, Andy Olert, treasurer and chief client of the Easy Loan Company, and Jim Hodges, head joke-appreciator, wielded clubs and cherry pies on Pete Bartel, George Herman and Bill Heffner . . . immediately after the initiation, the new members, who now constituted a majority, passed a resolution and plan to initiate the veteran members at a future date . . ."

At this point the notes become illegible and finally disappear altogether.

Anybody want a job on the Watchdog?

Just remember, the next time you slide down a bannister, watch out or you'll come to a calloused end.

Books

by Cyril Keller

The following books have been received recently by the Loyola College Library:

When the Going Was Good

—Evelyn Waugh

The best chapters of four travel books by Mr. Waugh are present here in clear, accurate, readable style. His travels before 1932 are subject, and the book is a refreshing relief from the usual tendency of travel book authors to go overboard on callow glorification.

Doctors East, Doctors West

—Edward Hume

China is the setting for this novel by Dr. Hume. His descriptions from an American viewpoint toward the singular customs of the country caused this book to be selected one of the fifty best of the year.

The Angelic Avengers

—By Pierre Andreu

When this book appeared in Denmark during the war it went uncensored, but its veiled meaning was not lost on Danish readers. Perhaps the American reader will not get as much out of it, but after an ordinary beginning it suddenly swings into a tale of mystery and adventure worthy of Poe. Swift plot development and suspense will hold the reader even if the deeper connotations are lost.

Barabbas—Emery Bekessy

Artfully mixing fact and fiction in this Catholic Book of the Month Club selection, Mr. Bekessy takes quotations from Scripture and builds a plot with the criminal Barabbas as the main character. The desert brigand starts a revolt against the Roman rulers and is subsequently mistaken for the Messiah. The revolt fails and Barabbas is thrown into prison, to be released when he is chosen instead of Christ by the Jews. The tale is a well-done example of historical fiction, with emphasis on fiction.

Loyola Wins Fourth Mason-Dixon Cage Title

BSquadNips Jay Quintet

Coach Ned Stevenson's B squad basketball corps completed its lengthy cage season by splitting even in its last four contests. Johns Hopkins' freshmen team was defeated in a 31-29 thriller, while the Monastery Catholic War Veterans' have lost to the junior Hounds, 49-22. American University's junior varsity quint won a 35-26 decision, while Loyola High School was victorious by a 38-35 count.

The Hopkins' game, a preliminary test before the varsity Jay-Hound meeting, saw Loyola turn in its finest game of the campaign as the team staged a dazzling second half comeback after trailing at intermission by eight points.

Davis Scores Eight

Bill Davis, 6' 4" center, was instrumental in the win, as he threw a four straight field goals for eight points in the opening minutes of the third period to put the Hounds back in the game. Davis then teamed with Ed Hughes, Jack Wintz, Jack Whalen and Frank Scrivener in keeping the Green and Gray head for the rest of the tilt.

Although a determined bunch, the Monastery five was never able to match the Hounds in speed and basket making, and fell behind at alltime by a 15 point margin. Ed Hughes was the point gathering leader for the winners, collecting 15 points.

Desperate Attempt Fails

In the Loyola High game, the team put on a spirited rally which netted ten points in the last two minutes. However, early sharpshooting by the school-boys, paced by Tony Durmowicz's 17 points, proved too big a barrier to surmount.

The American University quintet threw up a strong zone defense which was successful in keeping the Hounds away from the basket and forced them to rely on outside shooting.

Hounds Entrain For Tourney

Eight hours after they topped Mount Saint Mary's and received the trophy symbolic of their Mason-Dixon supremacy, the Greyhound basketball team boarded Pullmans at Mount Royal Station for Kansas City, where they will represent District Six in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament. They were scheduled to arrive in Kansas City Monday night and begin tournament play the following evening.

Before entraining the Hounds heard Mass offered up by Father Arthur in the college chapel. Sid Roche served the Mass, which was attended by the team and a number of fans who had returned from Washington with them.

In the first round of the national tournament, in which a total of thirty-two teams from all parts of the country are entered, Loyola is scheduled to meet Hastings College of Nebraska. Among the teams entered are Texas Wesleyan, which met the Hounds in the Coliseum earlier this month, Depauw, Marshall and Loras. Fifteen thousand fans per night are expected to witness play.

Lefty Reitz Has Winning Team In First Full Season Since Returning From Navy Service

For Director of Athletics Emil G. Lefty Reitz, this season's basketball team becomes the fourth Loyola team to win the Mason-Dixon Conference Championship under his direction. Since coming to Loyola in 1937, Lefty has coached the '39-'40, '40-'41, '41-'42 and the present team to the conference title. The '41-'42 team also won the Mason-Dixon Tournament.

The record shows that where the material was available, Coach Reitz made the best of it, grooming his basketball team in a fast-breaking type of game that consistently won him the respect of opposing teams. In 1937, the Greyhounds were third in the league, second the following year.

Interviewed before the recent tournament, Lefty remarked: "We're looking forward, naturally, to winning the tournament. But teams like Mt. St. Mary's and American U. are going to be tough to beat. That Mount team is really an improved outfit, with several dangerous shots. American U. has been a good team all year."

"Another team that has improved a lot recently is the Catholic U. outfit. They've won their last three season games and may give us a lot of trouble in the tournament."

"American U. was the toughest conference game we had to win. The score (57-55) tells the story." Lefty didn't have to be asked about the hardest loss of the year: to Hopkins, 46-32.

Loyola's intersectional games have been especially good this year. Highlights of the season, of course, were the Greyhound's upset victory over unbeaten Seton Hall and the game in the Coliseum with Texas Wesleyan which we lost 60-59.

The invitation to play in the Kansas City tournament was the climax of the most successful season the Greyhound courtmen have enjoyed since Lefty came to the College and proves what a fine job he's done.

Grapplers Down Terror Matmen In Closing Meet

The Greyhound wrestling team finished its regular season by defeating the Western Maryland grapplers and forcing a tie with Gallaudet. The Western Maryland victory was their initial win of the year.

The highlight of the afternoon was the heavyweight contest between co-captain Phil Lohrey of the home forces and Bill Kerns, 215 pound undefeated giant of the visitors. Kerns, South Atlantic champion, was forced into overtime before he was able to eke out a decision over Lohrey.

Lohrey likewise proved competent in the Gallaudet tussle. He gained a decision over his opponent and garnered the necessary points to throw the match into a 16-16 deadlock.

Hopes are high for next year, with ten of this year's twelve candidates eligible for competition. These include newcomer Carter Beese, George Buchness, Gordon Erberts, John Mohler and Jack Enoch who created a minor sensation with his showing this year. Also returning are co-captain Mus Bower, Joe Boulay, Chuck Besche, Reds Kelley and Bud Tumulty. Only departures are Bob Gamson, who graduates, and Lohrey, who is anticipating entrance into West Point.

Gunners Upset In Intramurals

Biggest upset of the intramural basketball campaign to date was the Keystone team's 31-26 victory over the favored Gunners' five last week in the gymnasium.

With the Horigan twins leading the attack as well as playing a fine floor game, the freshman team entry came from behind in the second quarter and earned a eight point lead at halftime, 18-10.

Schanberger Leads Drive

The Gunners, with Bill Schanberger pacing the scoring, rushed back and threw in six points to draw within one basket of the leaders. But Bill Fannon found the range on a long set shot and Howie Bradley broke through for a layup shot to push the count to 22-16.

Sal Cammarata hit the cords a minute later but both the Horigans caged field goals, and the Keystone quint pulled out of reach at 26-18. The fourth quarter found the winners freezing the ball, while the Gunners tried in vain to gain control.

Diz Kids Victorious

A supposedly close contest was turned into a rout as the Diz Kids crushed the Sand Dune Kids by a 39-15 count. Pulling to a 9-0 lead on baskets by Tom Kearney and Vince Gallagher, the winners lived up to their name by keeping the freshman five dizzy all afternoon. After the third quarter, when they had a safe 32-12 advantage, the Diz Kids succeeded in holding onto the ball. Gallagher, with 13 points, was the high point producer, while the losers' Dave Carroll scored 10 of their 15 points.

Over two hundred Loyola rooters were on hand at the Stafford Hotel to lay a huge welcome mat on the pavement and give Texas Wesleyan a rousing reception to Baltimore. They gaped at the fancy boots and ten gallon hats in amazement and then gave each individual player a cheer.

After the Wesleyans had galloped into the Coliseum floor the next night in flashy yellow togs and ten gallon hats. Lefty Reitz and Jim Lacy each received a Texan chapeau and retaliated with a trophy to McNeely and a silk hat to the Ram's mentor.

Both teams adjourned to the Stafford for a postgame snack with a herd of Texas Congressmen rounded up by Rep. Hugh A. Meade. A bunch of little ole Maryland fillies were on hand to help the Wesleyans trip the light fantastic.

"Hurrah! Hurrah! 'Ray! 'Ray! Cheerleaders, What Are They

by George Herman

Some men are natural showmen. With a minimum of effort and a maximum of cleverness, they can make a crowd of individuals of all sizes and shapes laugh by the hour. Other men require a great deal of energy-wasting and useless acrobatics to acquire the same result. The latter type is called a cheerleader.

For two to three months before the basketball season, four young, unsuspecting students tramped daily to the gymnasium in the afternoons to display their wares before the eyes of their director. They were taught to lean backwards, frontwards and sideways by the simple manipulation of removing their vertebrae. They were taught to drown out sirens, low-flying airplanes and screams of the dying. After these few, simple rules were well learned and practiced, they were turned loose for a carnival laughingly referred to as a pep rally.

At this so-called pep rally, the student body played with the cheerleaders as a spider plays with the entangled and helpless fly. Through cruel methods known as "egging them on," they snickered up their sleeves as they built up a false illusion—they cheered.

Texans Edge Greyhound

Texas Wesleyan defeated Hounds 60-59 at the Coliseum March 1st, but Jim Lacy outpoir McNeely and Parham in a battle between the nation's highest scorers. Big Jim tallied twenty points to snare individual honors.

Bill Johnson and Andy O'Don alternated in brilliantly sewing McNeely, and his seven points in his lowest one-game total this season. Easy Parham and Harry Fortenberry shared honors for visitors with seventeen apiece.

Texans Scores First

The Rams scored first, but W Galvin retaliated with a swish and Sid Roche added another. though the Texans took the lead after this, Loyola rallied sharply and Tom Gisriel knotted the contest at 21-21 shortly before the period ended. Olinger added another basket, and the Hounds held a 29 lead at halftime.

The Wesleyan's came back sharply in the second stanza, but the rally was matched by Jim Lacy's brilliant shooting. Held to two points in the first half, Jim opened up with a brilliant outside offensive.

Late Rally

With four minutes to go the Rams held a seven point lead and elected to freeze the ball. But the Greyhounds, fighting against time, started a rally that brought the roaring partisan crowd to its feet. With three minutes Lacy dropped in eight points, but the Texans protected their edge by tapping in two more baskets.

With seconds to go Paul Feeley stole the ball and pushed up a layup shot that took Loyola to within one point of tying the game. Time ran out, however, and the final whistle and a foul committed against McNeely ended the game simultaneously.

At the opening game, however, the four happy, still unsuspecting cheerleaders were led out on the floor and the leader cheerily chirped, "The Whistle."

"The Whistle?" echoed numerous students—all of whom had been the pep rally.

"The Whistle . . . please . . . meekly murmured the leader.

Four voices, delicately tuned and harmonized with the yell—the all—just four—the cheerleaders.

The next game was different, however. Only three cheerleaders showed up. Only three voices cheered.

The climax to this little adventure came when one of the cheerleaders dropped dead from exhaustion by trying to compete with the girl cheerleaders from opposing teams. In addition, several people suggested we get all the students together in one section. We tried this, but the mothers, sisters, grandchildren, brothers-in-laws, police officers, enemy scouts, and frustrated basketball players refused to move over.

Yesterday, a beaming, young man wandered into the office, smiled at the editor and chirped, "I have a great idea! Let's have some cheerleaders for the basketball game! Drop dead!"

Running With The Hounds

by M. F. Mackey

There are several aspects of the recent basketball season that may now be discussed in retrospect. Biggest of these is the fact that Loyola won both the conference and tournament titles with a team that had never played together before. A few of the men had been teammates in high school and had performed at Evergreen before seeing military service, but the team as a unit was new to Loyola. There were no pre-season experts asserting that the Greyhounds would win the Conference crown. When they lost a string of games back in December, some very unstable characters were calling for the coach's scalp and giving detailed instructions on how to play basketball and win every game every year. Disregarding these instructions completely and with Lefty Reitz at the helm, the Greyhounds still managed to play enough good basketball to gain national recognition.

Jim Lacy turned in the finest individual performance in the history of Loyola basketball. A year ago that statement would seem exaggerated or at least startling. Now it is a common fact accepted by all.

For the most part, college cage fans have been fair enough to acknowledge Lacy's brilliant playing. There were some ugly moments when the insults of excited, fearful opponents among the spectators added to the pressure of Evergreen fans. No conference opponent, however, could match the sportsmanship exhibited by the Mt. St. Mary's followers in that final tournament game. When Lacy, after scoring 29 points, went out of the game on fouls, the entire audience cheered its approval of him.

Averaging 20 points a game over a 32 game stretch, against some of the better teams in the East, Lacy has racked up a total of 647 points including the tournament. That record may stand for a long time in this particular part of the country.

While Loyola's other winter sports cannot match the varsity basketball record, the men on the swimming, wrestling and B-squad teams turned in respectable results. The swimmers had one of the best squads in the conference though receiving little publicity for their efforts and performing before small groups of spectators.

Lack of experience in collegiate competition was the bane of the grapplers and they, too, got little support from the students. The B-squad basketball team had the audience; they played under the terrific handicap of being compared with the high-flying varsity five.

The sports publicity staff and the team managers come in for a belated share of credit. Loyola's basketball programs were the finest in the conference. Well-written, attractively designed, they were a source of much interesting and often exclusive information. Team managers of varsity sports have jobs that demand a lot of their time. The basketball managers, in particular, have well-earned a rest after a long, hard season with the Greyhounds.

In his short stay thus far at Evergreen, Father Arthur, Moderator of Athletics has shown a keen interest in making Loyola known throughout the country. Cooperating with Lefty Reitz, he has swiftly arranged for the basketball team's entrance into inter-sectional competition. The drawing of the 1947 Pontiac for the benefit of increased athletic facilities at Evergreen is presently one of Father Arthur's main interests.

Lacy Sr. Set World Mark With 37 Field Goals In 40 Minutes

by Don Fay

When Loyola opened play in the Mason-Dixon cage tourney last Thursday night at Catholic University, only a handful of spectators remember seeing a tall, stockily built man with black, wavy hair watching the game from the sidelines.

But he was there. He was in the crowd that stood near Loyola's basket. At every time out, he would slowly pace back and forth until the game was continued; at every Greyhound goal, he would give his sign of approval with a hand clap.

And at halftime, he strolled behind the temporary stands for a while, then he filed outside for a smoke. After a brief chat with some friends, he resumed his original position and rooted the Hounds on as they triumphed over Catholic University.

You've Seen Him

You've probably seen him many times if you've been a regular Loyola cage enthusiast this season. You've probably wondered why he prefers to remain in the standing crowd. And you've most likely felt some of his pride as you watched his son pilot Lefty Reitz's crew of courtmen to the Mason-Dixon title by scoring enough points to rank him second among all the college players in the United States.

But it's also highly probable that you didn't realize that Jim Lacy, Sr., was one of the greatest basketball players Baltimore has ever produced, one of the finest all-around athletes who ever graduated from Loyola High School.

Holds World's Record

The picture above was taken from The Loyola, a student publication of Loyola High. The edition was dated March, 1922. Above the picture in huge bold headlines stood the words: James Lacy Breaks World's Record. And the article that followed told one of the most unbelievable stories that the sport of basketball has ever produced.

For on March 8, 1922, Loyola High defeated Park School by a score of 162-4, and in that game Jim Lacy established a new world's record by throwing in 37 field goals in forty minutes for a total of 74 points.

Loyola won the Maryland scholastic championship that year, and Lacy was named to the schoolboy all-star team for his fine work. In addition to his basketball chores, he also participated in varsity football, baseball and tennis, one of the few athletes who played four sports during one year.

All-State Team

THE GREYHOUND sports staff nominates the following as members of the All-State basketball team:

- F—Jim Lacy, Loyola
- F—Ken Shugart, Nacy
- F—Pete Clark, Mt. St. Mary's
- C—Vic Turyn, Maryland
- G—Frank Samele, Washington

Jim Lacy and Fred Olinger of Loyola were chosen by the coaches of teams participating in the Mason-Dixon Tournament for positions on the All-Tournament team.

Jesse Linthicum

(Sports Editor, The Sun)

"Maryland, one of the smallest states, has become a power in basketball. Its teams have been selected to participate in major tournaments, and few, if any, can match the record it has compiled this season. In addition to receipt of numerous invitations to big tournaments, Maryland, in Jim Lacy, of Loyola, has the second largest scorer in the nation. He has rolled up a total of 647 points in 31 games in which he participated. Lacy truly is an All-American."

HoundTrackmen To Compete In Local AAU Meet

For the first time in six years, Baltimore track fans will watch college and amateur stars pound the boards in the Fifth Regiment Armory. There will be an invitational mile featuring Gil Dodds, Tom Quinn, Rune Gustafson, and Bill Hulse; many college and amateur athletic clubs will participate in a large variety of events. Loyola will be well represented in both the collegiate and open contests, by a team of speedsters under the management of Jack Enoch.

Hopes High In Relay

In the 880 relay, which will probably be restricted to Mason-Dixon conference teams, Loyola pins her highest hopes on the fast quartet of Frank Goldsmith, Lou Roche, Jim Norris and John Herrmann. Andy Olert will leap the 60 yard high hurdles for the Hounds, and Joe Ferraro, Larry Atkinson, and Lou Roche will dash 75 yards in the one remaining collegiate event. In an open competition relay, Jim Feilds will run 440 yards, Joe Ferraro 100, Fahey McKew 200, and Larry Atkinson the final 300. Jim Kauffman, Charlie Kimmel, and Bud Trucker will circle the oval once for the 220 yard dash, while Tom Petr and Mike McNeil will run the 440.

Brown In Mile

The middle distances will be covered by Bill Davis and Tom Comber in the 880, and George Brown in the mile. This will be under distance for Brown who ran in a 12 mile street race on March 9. Player-coach Jim Norris schooled his Greyhounds in the Armory until the 25th of last month, when they were chased out by Big Syd. Since then they have been practicing around the Evergreen track and on the basketball floor.

Swimmers Are Third in Meet

Competing against five Mason-Dixon foes in the annual conference swimming meet, the Loyola natators scored 30 points for third place honors. The University of Delaware captured the contest, held in their own pool on March 8th, and American University took second place.

Bruz Dailey, captain and stellar performer for the Greyhound swimmers, swam the 100 yard free style event in 59.7 seconds to give the Hounds their first victory. Bruz won this event in every conference dual meet this season. The other Loyola win was scored by Leon Greenbaum, who won the 150 yard backstroke with a time of 1.51.

This was the finale in a successful season for the Green and Grey swimmers. They scored three Mason-Dixon victories, lost only to American University in a close contest, and tied the Eagles in a return meet in the Evergreen pool. In non-conference competition they produced a record of one victory against three defeats to strong teams.

Loyola Men Plan Shows

Although the Loyola College curriculum offers no Dramatics Course to aspiring Ziegfelds and Barrymores, several of the students have struck out upon the roads of practical experience and are, at the present time, engaged in directing and participating in musical productions in various parishes throughout the city.

Johnny Grimm, a Loyola College Junior and one of the most enterprising musicians to attend Loyola in many years, is running the gauntlet of time and place by both directing St. Michael's Drum Corps musical, scheduled for April, and handling the musical arrangements for St. Ann's annual production, Just As I Thought.

Student Directs Annual Show

Directing duties of Just As I Thought, scheduled for the evenings of March 19, 20 and 21, are in the hands of Francis X. Gallagher, a Loyola Freshman. Although he has served as Master of Ceremonies for the show for the past four years, this is his first attempt in the directing field. Members of the various young people's societies of the parish comprise the cast of the musical.

Applying a helping hand with Just As I Thought, as well as singing the male comedy lead in St. Ann's annual operetta, "The Firefly," is George Herman, also a Freshman at Loyola. George's versatility shines forth to a large degree when he teams with Johnny Grimm to write music as well as to sing it.

In Student Production

Both Herman and Gallagher are playing roles in the famous Morality play, Everyman, which is to be presented on the evening of Passion Sunday here at Evergreen in the Library.

Chemists Needed...

And, Dr. Andrews adds, by the time a boy has had several years of chemistry, he should know whether or not he gets a satisfaction out of performing experiments.

Familiar With Field

The ability to write clear concise reports was emphasized. "The chemist hasn't accomplished much if no one can understand what he is saying," Dr. Andrews concluded.

When he speaks of training for chemistry and conditions in the field, Dr. Andrews is not talking through his hat. A lecture of his, several years back was the indirect cause of the Westinghouse Science Talent Search scholarships. He has been connected with over eight industrial laboratories.

Dr. Andrews came to Hopkins in 1927, after eight years at Yale and three on traveling fellowships, and is now doing work on low temperature reactions. Recently he succeeded in getting within 1° of Absolute zero, which Dr. Andrews admits, is pretty cold.

Chemistry Club

Two films, entitled "The Drama of Nickel" and "The History of Steel," were witnessed recently by members of the Chemists' Club.

Plans are in the making for a visit to the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company in Highlandtown. A lecture by an employee of the same firm's New York office is presently awaiting confirmation.

Four Happy Daddies Pass Out Cigars

Four of the students of the College took on new titles during the past month . . . that of "Daddy." The wife of William Healy, president of the Second Semester Sophomore Class, gave birth to a boy last month. The young fellow has received the impressive designation of Michael Driscoll Healy.

March 3 is the birthday of the red haired young daughter of Glenn Clackum who is a student in the Second Semester Freshman Class.

Two other Loyola students have announced the arrival of baby daughters during the first part of March. They are William Pillsbury of the September Freshman class and Albert Rayner of the Senior class.

Five Loyola Alumni Hold Annapolis Posts

"Don't enter politics!" is the advice of Mr. C. Ferdinand Sybert, '22, Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, when asked to discuss the opportunities in holding public office as a profession.

Despite Mr. Sybert's contention that men in public office are "horribly underpaid," he admits that there always seems to be more than enough men willing to run for any office when election time rolls around.

Five Alumni In Annapolis

Mr. Sybert is one of five Loyola Alumni now holding office at the State House in Annapolis. Joseph R. Byrnes, '26, is President of the State Senate, John A. Menton, '26, is Chief Clerk of the House, W. Louis J. O'Donnell, '29, is assistant to Governor Lane, and James J. Lacy, ex '26, is State Comptroller.

For college men interested in politics as a career, the alumni are in accord that "the level of politics would be raised, and the administration of public affairs greatly benefited if more educated and intelligent persons would take part in it."

Public Service Chief Motive

Motives for entering politics? Mr. Sybert believes that personal satisfaction of public service and of doing an important job well is the chief reason why men make politics a career. "You'll never get rich in public office, but the job has its compensations for one who enjoys meeting people and having an active part in municipal affairs."

While no amount of specialized college training is necessary for the prospective office-holder, Mr. Sybert emphasizes that "a good background in civics and political science is a great help. A law degree or any training whatever in law is of tremendous value in aiding the office-holder to think clearly and logically and be conversant with judicial technique and practice."

Mr. Sybert received his law degree from the University of Maryland in 1925.

Only One Problem

After the student has determined to make politics his lifework, versed himself in civics and law, only one small detail remains: to get himself elected. That, Mr. Sybert says, is no pushover.

Reitz Urges Increased Use Of Facilities

"We would like to see all the students of the College make use of the athletic facilities provided them at the Gym," said Athlete Director Emil G. Reitz in a recent interview. "Since the great diversity in class schedules makes regular Physical Training classes impossible, students are urged to spend a portion of their free periods after class time over here."

All the facilities in the Gym are available from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. except when classes are in session in the Recreation Room and once every two weeks when the Gym is given good sweep-down.

Equipment may be drawn from the supply room merely by showing your registration card to the man in charge. Such articles as basketballs, ping-pong paddles, cue sticks, towels and the like are available for just the asking. No charge is made for the use of any equipment.

"The attendance at basketball games, swimming meets and wrestling matches during the past few months has been very gratifying," Lefty continued, "but I would like to see greater participation in intramural sports. It would please me no end to see every member of the student body taking advantage of the athletic facilities Loyola College has provided. Our pool is one of the finest indoor tanks in the State, and we can be likewise proud of the rest of our sports equipment."

The two main requirements in the use of the Gym are that tennis shoes be worn on the basketball court and that the sanitation regulations concerning the pool be observed.

It Takes A Lot of Knowing — to understand what young men like in wearing apparel, and (equally important) what they wish to avoid.

We believe we have some of that understanding because so many young men come to us for clothes and furnishings.
